Where to pickup your bus in StPancras

St Pancras International is one of a kind and so much more than just a transport hub. Following an £800m restoration project and a Grade I listing, the stunning architecture has been preserved for years to come whilst housing over 40 retail outlets and of course the UK's only high speed railway terminus.

Welcome to Farnborough International 2012 the world's most prestigious airshow

Go ahead London is pleased to announce the reintroduction of its Express Bus Services from Central London and the Heathrow area to the show and for this year we've introduced more pick up points to make your journey easier and more convenient.

The easy to follow guide will show you the most convenient point to pick up your bus. With each map is a list of departures from that point and the times of the return journeys from Farnborough. The approximate journey time is also shown to allow you to plan onward connections.

New for 2012

We have introduced new pick up points at St Pancras International and Euston Stations for visitors travelling by Eurostar and from the north arriving at King's Cross and Euston.

Owing to capacity difficulties at Heathrow caused by Olympics traffic, our bus services will leave from Hatton Cross this year. Visitors fly into Heathrow can access Hatton Cross easily in a few minutes from all the terminals via the Piccadilly Underground Line.

A comprehensive service covering all the major hotels situated along the Bath Road has been introduced for those visitors staying in the area for the duration of the show

Show dates for 2012

Trade and Press days (to which the general public are not admitted)
